Love-Linked.

The silver days, the golden days,

The days of sunny weather,

With amber on the mountain line

And violet on the heather,

Are but remembered days, love,

Far from the time and place,

The lost delight is out of sight,

And love and love are we.

Yet the gray days, the dreary days,

With gusty storms blown hither,

And cloud dark smitten of the blast

And driven a whither,

Through sob and moan and anguish

These days of muffled doom,

Their coronal of glory wear,

Which deathless stars illumine.

For in the mingled brightness

Of other years a better,

Too strong to break in any stress,

Bound our two souls together,

And better pain with thee, love,

With thee, true heart to heart,

Than all the vanished sunshine,

And thou, and I, and we.

—Margaret E. Stanger in Boston.

THE DIAMOND RING.

Like a drop of dew it sparkled on

Cora Vane's slender forehead, catching the slanting reflection of the afternoon

sunshine, as if every sunbeam loved to linger within the crystal-enclosed jewel.

And then Cora Vane looked her cheek

drooping like a lily bell, and the lashes hanging low over her flushed cheeks.

"It's so strange that he loves me,"

thought Cora, her scarlet lips half apart,

and the sweetest dream-like shadow of a smile hovering about her mouth. "He is so wealthy, so high born, so courteous

in aristocratic circles, where poor little I have never been admitted. I should all most fancy the whole thing to be a dream, if it were not for this precious stone sparkling on my finger."

And then Cora Vane looked her cheek

on her hand and drifted off once more into the delicious reveries that came to those who have set foot within the mystic temple of love.

It did seem not unlike the phantasmal outlines of a dream when one came to look at it from a sober, every-day point of view. Here she was, a little, hard-working, daily governess, earning a modest livelihood by constant toil—how could it be that Alban Carlisle, the courtier of fortune and fashion,

should have loved her, that he should have won her to promise to be his wife.

And she had told him so frankly and freely the story of her humble life, even to the brief, strange episode of Bruce

Wayne's love and proposals.

"Bruce Wayne?" Mr. Carlisle had repeated: "you do not mean the Bruce

Wayne who was in the Seventh Regiment at one time. Why, I knew him

well."

"Yes," said Cora, blushing, "it was Captain Wayne. He said he loved me, but he was so fierce and passionate that he was afraid of me. Oh, Alban, I never could have felt toward him as I did to you."

And Mr. Carlisle forgot the incident of jealousy which had already entered his heart, concerning this handsome, reckless young captain,

Bruce Wayne, and felt happy in the undoubting certainty that Cora was all his own.

Cora Vane was secretly thinking of all these things the next day, as she sat

by little Bessie's piano, counting time for the child's unceasing fingers

as they strayed regularly over the ivory

keys, for Cora had insisted on duly fulfilling all her engagements for the quarter, before she would consent to fix

the marriage day, when the schoolroom opened, and Capt. Wayne loomed idly

But, Captain Wayne, how can I help

you? I have no money."

He smiled bitterly.

"It is easy for you to say so, with that jewel sparkling on your forehead;

but I understand you are like all the rest of them, and turn away from the poor, forsaken outcast."

"Oh, Captain Wayne," sobbed the poor, tender-hearted little Cora, "what can I do? How can I—"

"It is but for one day, Cora; I solemnly swear to you that by this time to-morrow you shall have this money. I will go with you to a jeweler's; he will advance the money on the ring; to meet all my present needs. Cora

Special Police.

A paragraph in the GAZETTE of last week, announcing that the Selectmen will make no appointments of special police, owing to insufficient appropriation, is a subject of comment, the inquiry being "what are the Selectmen going to do with the amount which has been customary to expend in this direction?" The employment of the three special policemen, Messrs. Pratt, Houghton and Sullivan, for Sunday service especially, in wards 3, 5 and 6, seems to be a very judicious expenditure, but it will be remembered that the Selectmen, in their report to the town at the annual meeting, (vide schedule) stated that "if the police service is to be continued with the present number of officers, an increased appropriation will be necessary." The same amount, however, was appropriated, as in the previous year, $200 being the recommendation of the appropriation committee, and this section of the town compelled the board to adopt one of the two alternatives—either to discontinue the special or exceed the appropriation by continuing their service. In accordance with the latter course, feeling that the expenditures of the town are sufficiently heavy, the Selectmen, it is to be presumed, decided to keep the expenditures for police service within the appropriation. The town has been made the subject of no extraordinary expenses in that department this year to use up the amount of appropriation, in reply to which a statement of the expenditure to March 1 may be of interest.

The order drawn for police purposes to Jan. 1 amounted to $202, and the supplementary report of the Selectmen to March 1 makes the total to that date $2,087.00. Making the monthly average of this sum as a basis, the additional amount to the close of the fiscal year, (April 1) would increase the expenditure $222.30, making the grand total for police service $2,309.30, an excess of expenditure above appropriation of $309.30. An unexpended balance of the previous year, however, would reduce this to a somewhat smaller amount, but there was a deficit, and the Selectmen, we suppose, in regard for their duty as administrators of the town funds, have determined, as far as possible, to keep the expenditures within the limits of appropriations. It is, however, the opinion of many residents of the three wards where special police have been granted previously, that such service is still needed, and it is very probable that if the board should allow an excess of expenditure by continuing the service of the three officers, they would be sustained in their action by the public.

Deaths.
 The oldest inhabitant of Weymouth, Mr. John Curran, aged 106 years, died last Wednesday, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. John Sullivan, on Mount Pleasant. The funeral took place at the Catholic church yesterday.

Mr. Patrick Griffin, who was attacked with illness at Haskell's factory a week or more ago, died at his residence at the Landing last Tuesday, of pneumonia. The funeral service was held at the Catholic church yesterday.

Rough Sport.

The boys have commenced an old trick, and a very dangerous one too. Every parent should look out for his child, as there is danger of an injury to the person for life, the victim's attention being attracted by the one in the secret, while another steps behind him and stops down, when the boy, not being able to push the boy backward. One of these boys appeared to be hurt very badly on the back of his head. It was of such a nature that the boy cried from pain a while after. Parents should caution their sons against the dangerous trick.

Wedding.

There was a very pleasant wedding on Wednesday evening, at the residence of Mrs. C. C. Chesley, of Boston, where were Victor C. Squier, of Boston, and Mabel L. Spear, of Weymouth, who were joined in the bonds of wedlock by Rev. Wm. Hyde, rector of Trinity church. The ceremony was performed by a very noticeable in her modest and tasteful dress, and the occasion was a pleasing one to the parents, family and relatives who had the favor of witnessing the ceremony. The happy couple were taken to the residence of Mr. F. J. Bates, where they will reside in Boston, where the wedding reception will be held on the 4th of April.

Parish Meetings.

The annual meeting of the First Universalist society was held last Monday evening and the following officers were elected: Moderator, J. W. Armstrong; clerk, W. C. Guterson; treasurer, Wm. E. Porter; George W. White, Wm. C. Baker, Albion Hall, Dana Smith, D. J. Pierce, Chas. A. Carpenter, C. C. Porter, John C. H. Richards. The adjourned meeting will be held in Lincoln hall next Monday evening, at 7.30 o'clock.

Dedicated.

The Mt. Washington Baptist church at Haverhill, was formally dedicated Sunday afternoon by impressive services, and every seat and all the standing room was taken up. An able sermon was delivered by Wm. E. Porter, of the First Baptist church, and one of the interesting features of the occasion was the rendering of the solo "Nearer my God, to Thee," by Mrs. Eva Baker of Weymouth, whose rare sweetness of voice combined with her rare beauty and grace of manner won for her the praise and admiration of all. $2700 was raised to pay the debt.

Yachting Notes.

The preparations of the Monaquet Yacht Club for the regatta season of 1889 are being advanced, the fleet having been formed in three classes of cat, sloop and cutter. The dates for the regatta fleet for June 5 and 20, July 13 and 27, Aug. 16 and 24, the ladies day being Aug. 16. Changes have been made in rig and hull of some of the yachts, the Posy having been refitted with a new hull, and Mr. F. Linton will have a new cat rigged boat built by Maybury, of Quincy. The fleet comprises over forty boats, and the regatta off Fort Point will be attractive events of the summer.

New Tug.

At the yard of the noted yacht builder, Lawley, South Boston, a handsome tug, named "The Posy," is being built for service in Weymouth river and the harbor. The engine which will be of an improved pattern and efficient power, is being constructed by Messrs. Wellington, of Boston, and the Fore River Engine Works. The dimensions of the tug will be 36 feet length, 17 feet beam and 8 feet depth of hold, the draft being 9 feet, this shallow draft being designed for navigation of the river.

Revival Meetings.

The revival meetings in Wesleyan hall, East Braintree, were continued for four evenings last week, closing Friday evening. They were conducted by a lady evangelist, Isadore D. Harris, Rev. W. D. Heath assisting.

Poisoned.

The anniversary exercises of the Baptist Sunday school, which were announced for last Sunday, were postponed to next Sunday, owing to the severe storm which prevailed all day, keeping the little ones at home.

Ladies' Goods.

Mrs. S. E. Hobart has in stock at her store near the depot a fine variety of ladies' goods, which she will be pleased to exhibit to old and new patrons.

P. H. Blanchard has advertised for sale the building now occupied by him as a flour and grain store, and will erect a much larger and more convenient one on the south side of his dwelling.

The next meeting of the Temperance hall will be held at the same place next Thursday evening. Barnes' Orchestra will furnish music.

The attendance at the Temperance meeting in Reform Club hall Sunday evening, was not as large as usual.

The Temperance hall was again used to the severe storm, but those who did go were well repaid for their trouble.

Mr. H. H. Bates, of Boston, who has been visiting friends at Sharon, taking in the renowned "ozone" of that town, and is much improved in health.

The following have been elected as officers of the East Weymouth Cemetery Circle for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Geo. E. Dwyer; Secretary, Mrs. A. L. Flint; Treasurer, Mrs. W. R. Rice; and four other officers.

The concert for the benefit of the Cadet Quartette at Masonic hall Monday, drew a large audience and doubtless a goodly sum was realized, which will be used in giving the boys a course of lessons.

The program consisted of a piano solo by Arthur H. Raymond, a violin solo by John H. Bicknell, and a vocal solo by Mrs. J. Frank Drew and LaForte.

The concert was a highly interesting and well conducted, and was commended by a large and appreciative audience.

The fair was a financial success.

I don't know but our Captain himself would have been led astray by the story. The man spoke earnestly, and had a reasonable bearing and all the details looked reasonable. It was a great chance for me to distinguish myself, and I grasped it as a shark takes the baited hook. We were not to start until afternoon, and the blacks would not be put aboard for ships, and when we came to remove the catches ten were dead, suffocated.

When the crew came to be investigated and questioned by our Captain, one of them located the barracoons for us and gave such information as resulted in the capture of another schooner and enabled us to put a complete stop to the business on that coast. So, taken all in all, the man who made a fool of one of our Majesty's midshipmen did the service and the world, at large the greatest service he could have thought of. —New York Sun.
